

Go away coronavirus we are busy!

Come together in the big make together

SquirrelARTS have come up with an idea to engage the young children in Thanet, to use art as a thread to connect us with each other and help us in ways of coping through the coronavirus pandemic.

Come together in the big make!

Across the world we are being asked to isolate ourselves from one another within communities, this little art project is a way of thinking of creative ways to bring us together. We invite you to sit around a virtual community table and help produce a big art collage together. Whether at home alone or on lock down with family, whatever your age, (as long as school age) and wherever you come from, we welcome all children of Thanet schools to take up this invitation to create a piece of art work in the theme of something new from your new every day. #duringthecoronavirus

The rules.

You can sew, draw, collage, print, glue. You can use words or images, even use your I-pad or a smartphone.

Collage or draw an image of your choice on the theme of Something that gets me through the day onto a piece of paper 20cm x 20cm square. This might be,

- * Waking up late
- * Playing in the garden
- * Helping with chores
- * Building with Lego
- * Watching Netflix
- * Baking
- * Xbox, Playstation
- * Playing board games

Be creative with how you show what you do ...show the world what the children in Thanet do to say, "Go away Coronavirus, We are busy!"

Send us a photo of your finished square, with #duringthecoronavirus your name and a short description.

(If you wish to remain anonymous, let us know).

We will share your square on our Facebook page and our Instagram feed, and later on some will be featured on our website.

LOOK AFTER YOUR SQUARES CAREFULLY

Once we are returning to ordinary patterns of life, we encourage children from local schools around Thanet to exhibit their works with SquirrelARTS.
